

3-26-2020

The Omaha Police Department has just been made aware that an Omaha Police Officer tested positive for the coronavirus. The officer had traveled out of state on vacation. When the officer returned from vacation, the officer self-quarantined and has not returned to work.

The department will not be releasing officer's name or any additional information at this time.